

DAY 9 INTRODUCTION

You are going to take what you're doing yesterday and expand it. Today, you will start interacting with your market within your niche. You really want to get in there and start commenting and getting involved in the community.

The great thing about being online is that there are amazing communities. You need to be starting to be a participant. And you should do this in an ecological and ethical manner.

You don't want to run into a room, mankini on, shouting "Hey, look at me! Here's my site!" and then run out. No, you don't have to do that.

We are talking about good and ethical ways to be an active contributing member in the community you're creating your business in.

This is particularly vital for those who are taking an existing business and getting into the Thirty Day Challenge and applying it to their real world business. You will find this really interesting.

Have a great day, and see you tomorrow!
